PREFATORY.

The publishers take pleasure in presenting this volume to the citizens of Colorado City and Manitou. To complete and print a book of this character, name by name, address by address, and letter by letter, is a work of the utmost care and labor. We have made every effort to guard against mistakes and are sure this work is as free from errors as it is possible to make it.

For the most part, all information was given willingly and cheerfully, but in a number of instances through a desire to evade poll tax and other causes, our canvassers were willingly misinformed.

The number of names show a substantial increase over those in the last compilation, and proves that Colorado City and Manitou are progressing. Thanking those who have aided us, we dedicate this work to the citizens of Colorado City and Manitou and surrounding territory, hoping it will prove a valuable business aid to our patrons and friends.

VIEW OF COLORADO AVENUE, COLORADO CITY.

COLORADO CITY.

The nation's historian, in rounding up his work on the progress of this great country during the past quarter of a century, the most glorious period in the history of the nation, will unquestionably give considerable prominence to the State of Colorado, for no other state that has cast her star among the galaxy of the nation's satellites can boast of such a wealth of agricultural and mineral resources, not even the State of California, the total mineral wealth of Colorado aggregating annually upwards of $50,000,000, and its uniform temperature of climate has no equal.

It would seem that Nature in a penitance mood for the climatic evils which she has dispensed elsewhere, had sought in the almost perfect climate which the State of Colorado possesses to atone for the ills afflicting other sections of the country, and to give her something as near perfection as could be procured, for Colorado has a climate that is distinctively her own, one that cannot be duplicated or fully equalled by any other section of the country, a climate with few disturbing elements, and one which arouses only the sense of its seductive charms. In writing the history of this State, the trial of the historian will naturally lead him into the camp of the early pioneers who first settled on the spot that afterwards was called Colorado City—it was the pioneer town and was honored for many years as being the seat of government—it quickly grew into fame as a health resort, and was known long before Colorado Springs was thought of.

Colorado City sprang into existence November 1st, 1859, and was declared the seat of government in July, 1862. It was here that the first regiment from El Paso county was recruited for the Civil war, and on the Mesa east of town, the Cheyenne Indians committed a number of murders—the citizens of the town being the victims. This beautiful little city is cozily nestled beneath the shadows of the mighty Rockies; ten minutes' ride from the beautiful city will land the tourist at the Garden of the Gods, while a journey of five minutes more will take him to Manitou. There is hardly a prettier or more eligible location in the state for a thrifty little city. It has neither the heat which prevails in summer at Colorado Springs, nor the almost incensant winds which blow there the year around. Its winters are milder and far more enjoyable, because of its nearness to the mountains. Colorado avenue, the main thoroughfare of the town, is nearly two miles in length, and is one of the broadest avenues and widest streets that can be found anywhere. Its numerous fine shade trees, which line either side of the avenue for its entire length, present a cool and refreshing look, and an especially attractive appearance to the visitor to the town in the summer months.

ARCHITECTURAL ATTRACTIONS.

The city contains many attractive houses, the architecture of which will vie with those of Colorado Springs and many other larger cities. Unlike Colorado Springs, Colorado City has the advantage of its many resources in the way of manufacturing plants and other industries. The resources of the town are derived mainly from the Colorado Midland Railway and the Colorado-Philadelphia Reduction Works. The improvements of the latter plant have been constant and extensive, and the business done is exceedingly large. Its employes number about 125 men, nearly all of whom live in the town. The pay roll is estimated to average upwards of from $10,000 to $12,000 per month, or aggregating $135,000 annually. The former industry, which is of greater importance to the town, consists of a round house, machine shops and offices of the Colorado Midland Railroad, the pay roll of which carries the names of more than four hundred men, whose salaries aggregate $35,000 per month, or about $400,000 a year, making a grand annual aggregate of revenue derived from these two sources of about $500,000 of which Colorado City should get the direct benefit. These revenues are likely to increase as years go along, as the growing business of the industries will naturally add to the wealth of the city. While not the center of an important gold belt, Colorado City enjoys being the seat of these two large industries which give to it the benefit of more than a half a million dollars of yearly expenditures. In addition to these permanently established industries, a new smelter will shortly be completed which, it is said, will have a capacity of turning out some forty tons per day and the plant will be increased as demands are made upon it. As a manufacturing city it can be clearly seen that Colorado City offers greater advantages to the tourist and health seeker than many of her sister cities, and the shadow of the day is becoming plainly visible when the capitalist will utilize to even a greater extent the advantages which this city affords for manufacturing purposes. This city does not lay claim to productive gold mines, but she has white and red sandstone quarries that are unsurpassed within the borders of the state for their richness and productiveness, the stone from which has been in use in the construction of many of our fair public buildings. The quarries are located near the town and are considered practically inexhaustible.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

The school system of Colorado City is complete and effective. She has always taken an active interest in education and prides herself upon her schools. It was here that the first school in El Paso county was located, and for many years it was the seat of learning for the whole county. Ranchmen moved to town in the winter months to give their children the benefits of an education. The first school was started in 1861, and was a subscription school. Later District No. 1 was organized for a public school and for several years was held wherever a building could be rented. The brick building which gave place to the Bancroft school was erected for a court house, but soon after its completion, Colorado Springs was made the county seat, and the building was unoccupied until used for a school in 1874, or about that time when Professor Mathews began teaching. In 1888 the present building of six rooms was erected and stands as a monument to the wisdom and enterprise of the district, but not without many difficulties and discouragements. The building was finally completed, costing over $18,000, for the building proper, and some four hundred dollars for exterior improvements. It is as it has been in the past, the aim of the board to keep up with the advanced methods of the public school system of the country, and new and improved methods for the education of the young minds are being adopted constantly. And in conclusion, it can be boastfully said of Colorado City that her system and methods of education are strictly up-to-date.

MUNICIPAL GOVERNMENT.

The municipal government consists of a mayor and seven aldermen. The local government is based upon strict and conservative ideas of economy consistent with safe and secure progress, and the spirit of the people is decidedly in favor of every measure to make taxation low, while at the same time all real public improvements are well supported.

THE PRESS.

The press is ably represented by two weekly publications, the "Chronicle" and the "Iris." Both are ably edited and well sustained, and are likewise credits to the city.

SALOONS AND HOTELS.

The traveling public is looked after by a number of good saloons, which rank with the best sample rooms in the West, and the hotels are well kept and up-to-date.

PUBLIC DEPARTMENT.

The law abiding and peaceful traits of her people require but little of a public force to maintain good order. The department consists of a chief and three well-disciplined officers.

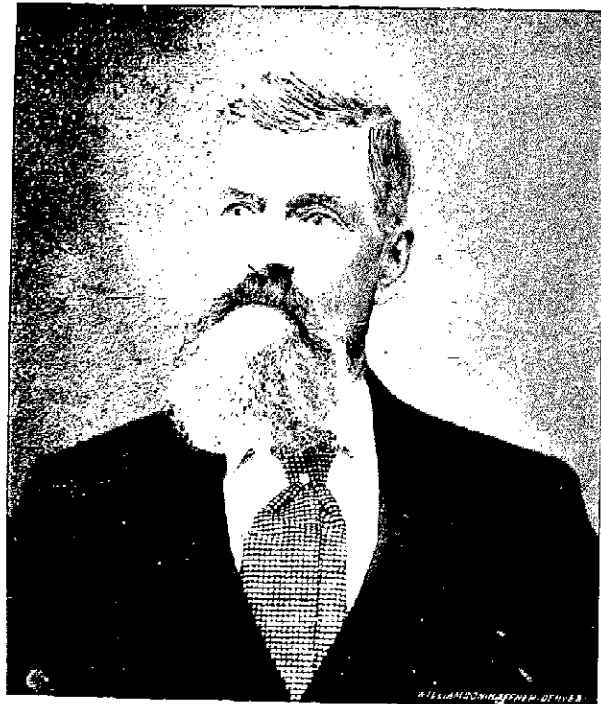

FIRE DEPARTMENT.

The city has an excellent volunteer fire department, consisting of a hook and ladder company and a hose company, headed by an intelligent chief.

CHURCHES.

The people of Colorado City, as a general rule, are essentially a church-going people, and all of the places of worship are well attended and creditably supported. There are five churches—Roman Catholic, Baptist, Christian, Protestant Episcopal and Methodist Episcopal.

MANITOU.

The name of Manitou has become synonymous to health, snugly nestled among the foothills of the mighty Rockies and lying directly under the shadow of Pike's Peak, it has been designed by Nature for what it is, the greatest health-giving resort of the West. Its altitude is 6,400 above the level of the sea, and the city has about 1,500 permanent residents, with churches, schools, pleasant residences and many large and modernly appointed hotels, also numerous other hotels and boarding houses. During the summer months it swarms with life; gaiety reigns supreme. The hotels and boarding houses are filled to their utmost capacity, with health seekers and tourists. And during the height of the season the hotel life is as gay and fashionable as any of the larger watering places of the East. Summer evenings at Manitou are one long uninterrupted period of pleasure and delight. It is estimated that there are at least 125,000 visitors to Manitou annually. The city lies in a narrow valley about five miles west of Colorado Springs, and is reached by both steam and electric railways. The name of Manitou was known and was famous long before Colorado was named, and, on account of the demonstrated value of its mineral springs, became an embryo health resort, while the population of the country was yet in colonies. It is the wonderful mineral springs that have so largely added to the fame of this delightful all the year around resort. It was first chosen as a pleasant place for quiet homes, but its wonderful mineral springs soon attracted the attention of scientists from all over the world. Truly it is called the "Saratoga of the West." It was here that the savage red men in their lore of superstition and mystery picked upon this divinely shaped valley as the only fitting shrine for their gods, and called the hissing springs "Manitou," (the Great Spirit), more generations ago than even their traditions can give account. Here they made pilgrimages, in solemn awe, and here they brought their sick and aged to drink and be healed by the effervescent waters, which they believed were supplied them by the gods. Foremost in Manitou's real importance is the wonderful healthfulness of its climate, its peculiar situation gives it advantages unpossessed by other locations. It is sheltered from the fierce and frigid winds which at times sweep the plains, and from this protection, is warmer than the plains in winter, and it is cooler in summer by reason of its more frequent showers.

ITS SCENIC BEAUTY.

The scenic beauties of Manitou and its surroundings have attracted thousands from all parts of the world, it has been given prominence both in poetry and prose, and the artist has described its beauties to the people of the civilized world by the skill of his brush.

At the very doors of Manitou are the greatest points of interest in the Rocky Mountain regions, viz.: Pike's Peak, the Garden of the Gods, the famous Balance Rock, South Cheyenne Canons, the home of the Seven Falls, Englemen's Glen, Ute Pass, the Ancient route of the savage from the mountains to Manitou, Rainbow Falls, Williams' Canon, and others of less distinction, such as Crystal Park, Cameron's Cone, Glen Eyrie, Briarhurst, Lover's Lane, Blair Athol, Seven Lakes, Mine-haha Falls, Lake Moraine and many others, both beautiful and nameless; besides there are the underground wonders of the Grand Caverns, which would take a good-sized volume to describe their attractions, and curiosities, and the Cave of the Winds with their marvelously wrought and magnificent castle-like formations, are truly wonderful.

ON LINE OF PIKE'S PEAK COG RAILWAY AND PIKE'S PEAK TRAIL.

Altitude, 9,000 Feet.

A Rustic Log Hotel With Old Fashioned Fireplaces,

Located in one of the most picturesque and romantic spots in the Rocky Mountains, with shady nooks and cool streams of water, well stocked with trout, flowing through beautiful canons, trails leading to the summit of high mountains, where fine views can be had. The best way for those who walk to the Peak is to stop over night at the Half-way House, this making the trip easier and with less fatigue.

ORIGINAL

Mineral Water and Ginger Champagne.

There Is Only One "Manitou" Water,

Recharged solely with absolutely Natural Carbonic Acid Gas, and

The "Manitou" Mineral Water Company

alone supplies that "Manitou" water.

Beware of imposition, counterfeit and false representations. Become familiar with the labels. Scrutinize every bottle offered. Accept no bottle unless the neck label contains a fac-simile of the word "Manitou" as printed above and the body label the fac-simile of the signature of the company, as printed below.

There is only one original, genuine and pure "MANITOU." Accept no water on draught called "Manitou." The genuine "Manitou" is sold only in bottles.
