INTRODUCTORY.

We present herewith the second volume of our City Directory of Colorado Springs, Colorado City and Manitou, knowing it to be as good as any directory published in the United States, irrespective of population.

We have had many difficulties to overcome. Our information must be obtained from the people voluntarily on their part, as we have no authority to force them to give it to us; some are apathetic and indifferent; others are ignorant and imagine every one who asks for information concerning them has some ulterior motive, and still others have dishonest reasons for not wanting their addresses known. However, where direct information has been refused, we have obtained it from other sources, so that we can confidently say this directory is as complete as money and effort can make it.

Colorado Springs continues to grow, and is now a city of the first class. Our last directory, issued June 1, 1900, contained 12,460 references, from which we deducted 1,120 names of firms, churches, blocks, etc., leaving 11,340 names. This year we give 12,818 references, from which is deducted 1,153 names of churches, firms, blocks, etc., leaving 11,665 names of individuals, which at the conservative ratio of two and one-half inhabitants for each name in the directory, shows the present population of Colorado Springs to be 29,162, an increase of 812 during ten months. No directory published in this country uses a smaller ratio than we do in computing the population, and we feel positive that 29,162 is a conservative estimate, the figures given by the United States Census enumerators to the contrary, notwithstanding.

NEW FEATURES.

We call special attention to our Householders' Directory, pages 411 to 460; also to the Christian names of married women, given in parentheses after their husbands' names. Merchants can readily see the advantage of these two important features of this year's directory.

Our library of directories of other cities is growing rapidly, and is free for the use of our patrons.

To the representative business and professional men of this city, who, by their patronage, have very materially aided us in producing this volume, and to all who have furnished us with the desired information concerning themselves and their business, we return our sincere thanks, and promise to place before the business men of this city another volume as good or better than this one, one year hence.

Respectfully,

THE PUBLISHERS.

April, 1901.
