

With your free library card from Pikes Peak Library District, you can learn about almost anything you'll ever want to know. Use your library card to check out books, magazines, DVDs, CDs, tapes, and more from the Library's circulating collection and to access licensed databases on the Library's website at ppld.org.

A library card offers educational and recreational opportunities for all ages. With it, you may borrow anything from the Library's circulating collection.

It also allows access to subscription databases paid for by you and other PPLD taxpayers, including:

- Biography Resource Center
- Literature Resource Center
- Reference USA
- Magazine articles (full text) about current events, business, and health
- Newspaper articles (including full text for The New York Times)
- Value Line Investment Survey
- Britannica Online
- HeritageQuest
- HelpNow! (live homework help)
- History Resource Center: U.S. and World
- Science Resource Center

PPLD uses a collection agency to assist with retrieving overdue materials and fees.

* If you are a Colorado resident and live outside of the Pikes Peak Library District, you can get a Colorado Library Card. For more information, stop by the Circulation Desk at any library listed on the back of this brochure or call 531-6333, x2383.

Here's how to get a library card:

- If you live in El Paso County (except Manitou Springs or Widefield School District 3*), fill out the application in this brochure and take it to any Pikes Peak Library District location.
- You also need to bring picture identification and verification of current permanent address (like a driver's license or bill addressed to you).
