

The Gold Rush! And why it's important.

By: Jax Harris, 4th grade, Patriot Elementary School

A quiet town about to BOOM!

Prospectors pass through.

Looking for gold

panning, mining, searching, and big BOOMS!

People saying "Pikes Peak or Bust!"

Dangerous trails along mountain sides.

Unsteady but worth the ride.

Donkeys ready to fly.

The howls of coyotes.

The sound of flowing water,

like music to the ears.

It will never end.

Denver has too many visitors.

The streets get filthy, and so do the words.

The miners go too far.

Dandelions get crushed from the horses.

The blue columbine just watches and hears the sound of screaming terror.

But it also causes pollution.

The flowers all die.

They always say not everything lasts forever

but history does
its something that survives
to the day that earth passes away.
And to even longer and longer it stays
even if aliens do walk this planet.
Generations pass but there still are our ancestors who depend on us to write a story
one day about what they did.
It teaches us about things that we shouldn't do.
They made the mistakes for us
so we pay respect.
